Treatment of Hog Cholera.

Paradise, Ky., May 1877. litor Heruld: As any kind of information in reand to the prevention or treatment of diseases of animals will be of interest to a majority of the readers of the As a preventive treatment for hog cholera, make a strong decoction of worm seed, (Jerusalem oak) give this in corn meal, wheat bran, or slo from the kitchen twice a week when there is an epidemic of this disease pro vailing among hogs. Repeat this dose every day when the hog is laboring under an attack of the disease, following it with a purge of May apple root every or every other day. My attention was just called to the efficacy of worm seed in hog cholera by an article written by L. L. Dorsey, of Jeffer- dren, son county, published in the Couriervirtues and am satisfied, be the caua controling influence over the course of this disease. If the disease is parasitic, as many observers contend, the remedy would be indicated upon theoretical grounds. But the length of this article will not permit of the discussion of the causation of hog cholera. It is now well understood among hog raisers that hog cholera is the only obstacle in the way of making hog growing profitable in this country Most farmers in this county are grow ing very inferior grades of hogs giving them but little chance to grow or take on fat, allowing that to run outside melosures becoming scavingers of all the filth upon the commons. It would be weekly Courier-Journal, a Year.................. 2 00 be somethining out of the ordinary course of events if hogs so treated re- and of twenty and over at $1.50 cach. bear this fact in mind and give his application. hogs a sufficient amount of healthy food. In the summer months, hogs hould have access to good clover and grass pastures, getting salt two or three times a week, getting a light feed of corn daily. The Berkshire and Pe land China will keep fat on clover or grass alone. I am confident under proper management the so-called hog cholera can be stamped out for it is evident that bad management is at the foundation of this malady among hogs. Change the system of manage ment, give hogs healty feed, sufficient in quantity, and hog raising will become the most profitable pursuit in the Green river country. OBSERVER. HAY TEA FOR CALVES .- The prac er extent than is either necessary or profitable. Fifty years ago, Sir James Stewart Denham, of Scotland, E. A. BUNCH, Prop. instituted experiments in raising calves with hay tea, taking them from their mothers when three days old, and those experiments were eminently successful. Two pounds of hay were steeped in twenty quarts of water, and then boiled down one-half, and to this was added a quart of skimmed milk. In some instances molasses was added
